Art. 15. (1) The sustainability risk, as defined in the Regulation, shall mean the risk that the return on the investments may be negatively impacted by events or prerequisites of environmental, social or governance nature. The nature of those risks varies over time:

In short term perspective, sustainability risk is a risk, typically associated with the occurrence of a particular event. Such risks usually impact return only in case the event occurs. Examples of such events include an accident (resulting in litigation, for example to compensate damage to the environment); lawsuits and penalties (for example for failing to respect social legislation); scandals (for example when a company gets bad publicity because human rights are not upheld throughout its supply chain or because a company's products do not comply with the ESG standards it has undertaken to abide by). These types of sustainability risks are deemed higher, when an issuer is less strict on ESG standards; and

In long-term perspective the sustainability risk refers to risks, which may evolve in the long run, such as, for example: Exposure to business activities, which may be subjected to pressure due to impact on climatic changes (for example, elements of the automotive industry); change of preferences for products on the part of clients (for example, enhanced preference for more sustainable products); difficulties in recruiting staff; increased expenses (for example, insurance companies, facing claims due to changing environmental conditions). Given that this risk evolves in long-term perspective, companies may initiate measures for its containment, for example through changing the offered products, improvement of their supply chains etc.

Art. 16. UBB offers to its clients funds managed by KBC Asset Management, which are committed to achieving long-term sustainable investment returns for its clients. This means that KBC Asset Management makes investment decisions on behalf of its clients and based on an investment policy, which includes sustainability risks, social, ethical and environmental standards.

In its investment policy KBC Asset Management takes into consideration those sustainability risks by means of:

a) Abiding by an exclusion policy, which is being applied to all funds; and

- b) Strictly differentiating between funds for sustainable and responsible investment (SRI) and other conventional funds, with stricter ESG standards and consequently lower sustainability risk of the SRI funds.

The main exclusion criteria, being used are linked to weapons, cigarettes, breach of human rights, anti-corruption. This is a non-exhaustive list and it may be amended by the Consultative Council of KBC Asset Management. More information on these exclusion criteria is available on the website of KBC Asset Management.

(2) The investment policy of KBC Asset Management assesses on an ongoing basis underlying investments on issuer level, but also (where relevant) at asset distribution level and at the level of regional or sectoral distribution. These regular reviews consider sustainability risk as one of several elements that may affect return.

Chapter Eighteen

Action Plan pursuant to Regulation (EU) 2016/1011 of the European Parliament and of the Council dated 8 June 2016 on indices used as benchmarks in financial instruments and financial contracts or to measure the performance of investment funds and amending Directives 2008/48/EC and 2014/17/EU and Regulation (EU) № 596/2014 (OB, L 171/1 dated 29 June 2016) referred to hereinafter as „Regulation (EU) 2016/1011“, or the “Benchmark Regulation”.

Art.73. In implementation of the Benchmark Regulation, the Bank shall maintain an Action Plan, should an interest rate benchmark change materially or disappear. To date the Action Plan, adopted by the Bank in its part, pertaining to deals in derivatives envisages replacement of the interest rate benchmark in one of the following manners:

- With an alternative interest rate basis, information about the applicable values of which are published on the webpages of generally accessible leading financial websites, which corresponds to the alternative interest rate under the hedging derivative (IRS) and which equals the interest rate basis under the loan agreement, linked to the respective derivative instrument. Generally accessible financial websites are www.euribor.org or www.euribor-rates.eu (or on another webpage, replacing the webpages of www.euribor.org or www.euribor-rates.eu) or cmegroup.com or other webpages, which replace the benchmark, depending on the currency, to which the index relates.

OR

- an alternative reference interest rate, indicated in the interest rate statistics of the Bulgarian National Bank (BNB), information about the applicable values of which is published on the webpage of the BNB, respectively on another webpage, replacing the BNB webpage, and corresponding to the alternative interest rate under the hedging derivative (IRS) and equaling the interest rate basis under the loan agreement, linked to the respective derivative instrument.

OR

- if there are no available/published quotes of interest rate bases on the webpages of generally accessible leading financial websites, such as www.euribor.org or www.euribor-rates.eu (or on other webpages, replacing those) nor on the platforms for analysis and trade in financial instruments (for example Bloomberg and Reuters), then quotes on an interbank market, where the Bank may obtain financing from, may be used, which quotes should correspond to the alternative interest rate under the hedging derivative (IRS).

It is envisaged that the initial application of the replacement index should happen not later than 3 (three) months of the benchmark discontinuation or after expiry of the contractual fixing period, as upon the initial transition, the Interest Rate shall not exceed - as per the Credit Institutions Act - the most recently applicable Interest Rate under the Agreement with the Client. Over the period from benchmark discontinuation until the initial application of the replacement index the used value shall be the last available value of the benchmark rate.

Art.74. The overall text of the Bank's Action Plan as per Art. 28, Para. 2 of the Benchmark Regulation, including the rationale, contained in it for use of the respective replacement index, including also the amendments to the said Plan, shall be provided to the Client upon his/her request, as all notifications, statements and information about a change in an interest rate benchmark under a derivative instrument, originating from the application, respectively change of the Action Plan as per Art. 73 above, shall be made in writing and shall be deemed received, if these have been sent by fax, delivered in person, couriered, sent by email or by a return receipt mail (via Bulgarian Posts EAD or via another operator, holding a license for rendering universal and/or non-universal postal services through the choice of the sending party) and/or in another manner of serving notices, stipulated in regulations, thus having reached the addresses of the Client.
